CORE INCOME MODEL PORTFOLIO

To provide a high level of income with some capital growth through exposure to a broad range of asset classes

INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE & APPROACH

The objective of the Core Income Model Portfolio, over the medium term, is to achieve an above inflation return with an income focus, together with an element of capital growth. The gross yield is at present targeted in the region of 3%. Equities are the main asset class and so there will be a degree of volatility.

The model portfolio will invest in ETFs and other collective funds, as well having scope to use structured investments. This provides a high degree of flexibility to allow the manager to implement any tactical view. The manager's approach is to provide their own tactical overlay and therefore in most cases passive instruments are used to minimise cost. However active managers are considered for each sector and used in a minority of cases where it is felt justified. The firm's investment philosophy advocates complementing a core of traditional assets with exposure to value stocks and smaller companies. Within equities a global approach is taken with only a moderate UK bias. Given the income focus of this portfolio, value stocks will play a greater role than smaller companies. There is an absolute focus on risk management, to attempt to control volatility, minimise draw-downs and enable maximisation of risk adjusted returns.

MODEL PORTFOLIO POSITIONING

We are monitoring geopolitical tensions closely. The sanctions levied by the US on Russian companies were unexpected, as was compelling non-US citizens and business to enforce the sanctions. In an additional act of aggravation, which has slipped under the radar of mainstream media, the White House attempted to incense China (on top of trade tariffs) by permitting US defence contractors to sell Taiwan the technology to build its own nuclear submarines – a breakthrough in Taiwan's long-standing ambitions to build up its fleet to counter the threat from Beijing. We remain underweight traditional fixed income, underweight equities – specifically US equities – and have no investments in property. We prefer: alternative investments, such as absolute return strategies; specific equity regions, such as France, Japan and Emerging Markets; and short duration, alternative fixed income funds, such as those with exposure to asset backed securities. This reflects our view that central banks are keen to tighten monetary supply in 2018, pushing fixed income yields higher at a time when fixed income and equities are expensive. The distribution yield is 3.8%.
